

STORY ORGANIZER

ACTIVITY GUIDE

EPISODE 122: MICHIGAN'S NATIVE PLANTS

Writing a story is a great way to provide information about a topic. It can give real information in a way that the reader will enjoy. There are important traits of writing a narrative. These help us to ensure that our writing is interesting and tells our story well.

Think of something you want to write your story about. Do your research to learn about the topic so that the information you include is factual. Then use the graphic organizer below to begin putting your story together.

Interesting beginning: Do I get the reader's attention right away?

Sequence of events: Does the order make sense?

-
-
-

Descriptive details: Do I describe things so the reader can picture them?

-
-
-

Conclusion: Does it make sense and follow the order of events?